VIRGINIA: In the Circuit Court of Appomattox County, Nov. 5th, 1947.
Bert D. Stratton & Als.
vs.
Mildred S. Elder, & Als.
To Bert D. Stratton, C. M. Stratton, Jr., Mary S. Gilliam, Alice S. Gable, Mildred S. Elder, Aubrey Stratton, Virginia C. Koca, Beasle C. Thompson, Mildred Christian, David Christian, Catherine Christian, Chesley Christian,William A. Christian, Joyce Christian and W. M. Abbitt, Gdn. ad Litem, Plaintiffs and Defendants, in the above styled suit.
You are hereby notified that I have fixed Tuesday the 9th day of December 1947, at 10:00 a. m., as the time, and my office at Appomattox, Virginia, as the place for taking the several accounts ordered by decree of the Circuit Court of Appomattox, in the above styled suit, at the October Term, 1947, as follows, to-wit:
First: Are the owners of the land described in the bill filed in this suit parties to this cause?
Second: Who are the owners of the property described in this proceeding and their respective interests in the same?
Third: What is the present market value of the real estate that is the subject of this suit?
Fourth: Can the real estate described in the bill in this cause be conveniently divided in kind between the owners thereof?
Fifth: Will the interest of any of the owners of the said real estate be prejudiced by a sale of the whole and a division of the proceeds among the owners.
Sixth: To Inquire and report all liens, if any against the said real estate.
Seventh: Any other matters deemed pertinent to the objectives of this suit by the Commissioner or any one interested.
Given under my hand the day and date above written.

Home Refrigerators Supplement Lockers
The idea of supplementing central locker plant service with home-type refrigerators that include compartments for freezing and for storing frozen foods is one that appeals to farmers who are equipped with electricity.
Larger frozen cabinets now are available for farm use in which a large part of the winter supply of frozen fruits, vegetables and meats may be stored. In some cases it still may be advisable to use community or co-operative locker plants for the larger amount of frozen foods needed.

Organic Matter Rids Cropland of Bacteria

Viruses Prevent Plant Diseases From Spreading

By R. C. THOMAS
Ohio State College.

Few disease-causing bacteria will survive in soil whose organic matter supply has been built up by the use of green manure crops and the return of crop residues and manure. Those that do live are so changed that they are no longer a menace to crops.
Extracts from soil rich in organic matter contain viruses that depend for their existence upon living bacteria. These viruses are especially numerous in organic matter added to the soil through residues from grasses, legumes and grain crops.

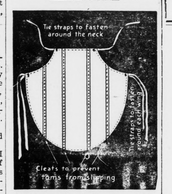
When these viruses come in contact with plant disease forming bacteria they have a profound influence on them, changing the form of these bacteria and making them harmless so far as plants are concerned.
The intensity of competition for food materials and life itself, among organisms inhabiting soil particles, are indicated by the fact that a single ounce of soil has an estimated living population of 50 million bacterial cells, besides many forms of fungi. Added to these are five million protozoa as well as other forms of organisms. Beneficial bacteria thrive best in soil well-stocked with organic matter and tend to crowd out the disease-causing kinds.



Blankets for turkey hens may prevent serious losses from tears and bruises during the mating season. This one was designed by Cornell university.

Metal Nipple Bucket

The metal nipple bucket was proven satisfactory for feeding young calves by Montana agricultural experiment station. The bucket is six inches in diameter, seven inches high, and is graduated in pints by indentations in the metal one inch apart which serve as a guide to the feeder in determining the amount of milk to feed. The nipple is 2½ inches long, made of ½ inch copper tubing, soldered securely into the bucket as shown. It is rounded at the end with solder.

Precautions Advised To Prevent Hog Flu
To keep flu from getting started, Iowa State college recommends that hogs be brought in at night from hogged-down cornfields to keep them from getting chilled. Overcrowding should be voided. Quarters should be planned so that sufficient space and adequate equipment will be available during bad weather, but the buildings should not be shut tight, making hogs too warm.

WHY WE SAY by STAN J. COLLINS & L. J. SAXON
"THUMBS DOWN"

The down-turned thumb was the sign by which spectators at the Roman arena indicated that they wanted a losing gladiator executed. It still means a losing cause.

Airliner Conducts Smaller Plane to Landing in Fog
NEW YORK. — Two business men in a small monoplane were circling over the fog shrouded Newark airport with gasoline for only seven minutes more of flying when the Newark traffic tower solved their problem.
The tower directed an Eastern Airlines plane to lead the smaller craft to La Guardia field, using low approach landing equipment which the monoplane lacked.
James A. Bentley, a New York management consultant, and his son, James Jr., an engineer, who were returning from a flight to Syracuse, N. Y., gratefully took the advice, trailed the airliner and landed safely at La Guardia field.

$10,000 Bills Are Lost By Thousands in China
SHANGHAI.—Somebody has made off with 445 cases of 10,000-dollar bills — a cargo of currency worth 40 billion Chinese dollars—$960,000 (U. S.).
The Central News agency reported that of 450 cases of bank notes jettisoned from a CNRRA transport lines plane, only five cases have been found after a 19-day search.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT!
By FRANK COLBY
Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

QUESTION BOX

San Marino: We are planning to purchase a tester bed for my room. My mother says that decorators pronounce tester to rhyme with "feaster." Is that correct?—C. A.
A.: No. Tester (from Old French testiere, "a head covering") should rhyme with "jester, nester." A tester bed is one having a canopy and hangings.

Q.: On the radio I heard the word requiting pronounced "ree-KWITing," the second syllable like the word "quit." Am I right in thinking that the "i" should be long?—A.: Yes. Requite, requital, requited, requiting, requiter, etc., should have the long "i" sound as heard in "by, my, why," thus: ree-KWY-ting.

Q.: A mother said to her married daughter, "You have too many clothes on that baby—he is sweating." The daughter said, "Mother, never, never use the word sweat! Say perspiration." Please comment. —W.
A.: In no way is sweat an improper word. Does not the Bible say: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread"? Does not every woman's wardrobe include at least one sweater—a garment worn originally to induce sweating? Objection to sweat is a relic of the euphemistic days of the Victorian era when leg, for instance, was such a naughty word that pianos, tables and chairs had limbs!

Houston: Is there such a word as "zenophobia"? If so, is it derived from the proper name Zenobia?
—L. C. P.
A.: "Zenophobia" is seen occasionally; but it is an erroneous spelling of the word xenophobia, "hatred or aversion to foreign customs, people, etc." It is pronounced: ZEN-uh-FOE'bee-uh.
